Kidney Balance, Support & Regeneration

In Greek, the term 'Sarcodes' means fleshy. Sarcodes imply protoplasm of animals, as distinguished from vegetable protoplasm. In homeopathy, some of the Sarcodes are proved medicines. They are obtained from healthy endocrine or ductless glands, or from normal secretions of living human organs and lower animals. The secretions are mostly hormones. As such, they are gainfully employed as homeopathic support and correction of the indicated substance through the provision of the correct oscillatory signature of what a healthy, well functioning gland or secretion should be. A strategic blend of X and CH potencies are present in the 60 mL cobalt blue bottle (protects the remedy) for this purpose, as are accompanying "classical homeopathic" remedies.

Note the addition of flower essences in some remedies, appropriate to the targeted gland, organ or system.

The idea of organotherapy was first introduced by Constantine Hering, M.D., the father of American Homeopathy, in 1834. This research has been continued now by prominent European, North and South American physicians and practitioners.

There are three proposed ways in which organotherapy is believed to work:

1. It has a direct effect on stimulating the function of the organ by enhancing the selection of enzymes and specific nucleic acids lacking in the organ.
2. The administration of the homeopathic preparation of organ tissue overwhelms the body with organ antigen, in effect stopping the production of anti-organ antibodies.
3. The organotherapy remedy may provide antigen to substitute for damaged tissue antigen.

We use low potentized botanicals, tissue salts and 6CH sarcodes, which are at the perfect homeopathic balance point between encouragement and regulation. (Typically 4CH and 5CH homeopathic potencies are used for stimulatory effects; 7CH is used for regulating the organ or tissue and 9CH as inhibitory).

Attempting to detoxify a weak or low functioning organ without first providing repair and nourishment will have detrimental effects, both physically and energetically, and may, in fact, push the organ deeper into failure.

To those familiar with Western Medicine, the loss of kidney function means the significant loss of our ability to "filter" toxins from the body. For practitioners of Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM), however the prospect of such a dramatic reduction of kidney function takes on a much greater significance.

In TCM, the kidney is the seat of procreation. It is the vitality center of the body, the clarity of our thinking and our ability to regenerate our body. It is a gift from our parents, the Western equivalent of DNA.

In addition to removing wastes and balancing body fluids (water, sodium, potassium, etc.) the kidneys regulate vital hormones responsible for salt levels, blood pressure, red blood cells in the bone marrow and the production of Vitamin D.

Kidney damage usually takes place gradually and often without symptoms. It may only be after years of kidney disease that kidney function becomes noticeably decreased.

Artfully formulated to "Increase root energy stored in the kidneys" (as TCM practitioners would say), Rena Code provides organotherapeutic sarcodes, low potentized drainage, Spagyric botanicals, minerals and flower essences to support healthy kidney function.

This formula also naturally increases metabolism and restores the adrenal glands in cases of adrenal exhaustion in support of the kidneys. It may be taken over several months to reverse wear-and-tear done over the years.
